HOTEL & GOLF RESORT

THINGS TO SEE & DO HIKES

GREAT SUGAR LOAF MOUNTAIN

This unique mountain stands apart from the rest of the upland and is instantly recognisable by its conical shape. On a clear day you can see not only Dublin City and the Wicklow Mountains, but Snowdonia in Wales. With a 7km hiking route, it's hugely popular outing for Dublin day trippers.

Distance: 5-7km | 12km from Druids Glen

THE DEVIL'S GLEN WATERFALL WALK

The Devil's Glen boasts a dramatic landscape that was fashioned at the end of the Ice Age when the melt waters of the ice sheet created the valley. The resultant gorge affords a swift decent for the Vartry River as it makes its way from the Vartry Reservoir to nearby Ashford village.

BRAY HEAD WALK

Bray Head Walk is a loop trail where you can breathtakingly beautiful panoramic views of Bray itself, North East Wicklow and Dublin Bay. The hill dominates the end of the promenade and there is a stone cross at the top which was placed there in 1950 during the Holy Year.

GLENDALOUGH – SPINC WALKS

The shortest route follows the Poulanass Waterfall before entering the Lugduff Valley. From there, a steep climb up steps brings you onto the boardwalk which hugs the cliff of the Spinc, before cutting down onto forest with a spectacular viewing point overlooking the Upper Lake from the Spinc.

LUGNAQUILLA MOUNTAIN TRAIL

Standing at 925m Lugnaquilla or Lug as it's better known, is the highest mountain in Ireland outside of Kerry. There are a number of ways to climb this mountain, all of which lead to the large stone summit cairn, where you have sweeping views of the surrounding countryside.

Distance: 10-16km | 36km from Druids Glen
